Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Truth About Homer: With Some Remarks on Prof. Jebb s Introduction to Homer Professor Jebb, with the applause of admiring Reviewers, has come forward, not for the first time, in his Introduction to Homer, as an advocate of that view respecting the very early date of our two great Epics which appears to be accepted generally in this country, as well as by a numerous school in Germany. They agree in believing that the Iliad and the Odyssey have come down to us (more or less nearly in their integrity) from B.C. 800 or 850, if not even from yet earlier times. Of course they rely, generally, (1) on the archaic character of the poems, (2) the ancient forms of the inflexions, (3) the notices of domestic life and customs, (4) the statement of Herodotus, recording perhaps the tradition of his age, that Homer lived four centuries before his own time. And that the matter of the poems is very old, - as is the matter of the Argonautics of Apollonius and of the...
